sections, in which 10 percent reservation is available in educational institutions and government jobs. During the hearing, three out of five judges supported reservation on economic grounds. Justice Maheshwari said that economic reservation is not against the fundamental structure of the Constitution. The 103rd amendment is valid. Justice Bela Trivedi, while agreeing to this decision, said that I agree with the conclusion of Justice Maheshwari. SC/ST/OBC have already got reservation. It cannot be included with the general category. The framers of the constitution had talked about keeping the reservation for a limited time but it continues even after 75 years. At the same time, one of the five-judge bench, Judge Ravindra Bhat has disagreed on this decision. Ravindra Bhat said that a large part of the population belongs to SC/ST/OBC. Many of them are poor. Therefore, the 103rd amendment is wrong. Justice S Ravindra Bhat has also considered it wrong to give reservation above 50 percent. He said that Articles 15(6) and 16(6) should be repealed. Whereas, Chief Justice Lalit has also opposed reservation on economic grounds. He said that I agree with the decision of Justice Ravindra Bhat. That is, the Supreme Court has upheld the EWS reservation by a majority of 3-2.
